Presenter:
Mayor Yemi Mobolade

Background:
Colorado Springs' former Public Works Director, Travis Easton, was promoted to the Deputy Chief of Staff position on June 25, 2023. The panel included a diverse group of key stakeholders selected to include both internal and external individuals familiar with the duties and responsibilities of the role and City operations. Richard Mulledy was chosen as the top candidate for the position.

Mr. Mulledy has been with the City of Colorado Springs in the Public Works department since 2016. Mulledy has nearly nineteen years of experience in civil engineering and public works leadership. He is currently serving as the Deputy Public Works Director for the City of Colorado Springs, overseeing the planning, construction, maintenance, operation, and management of the City's stormwater infrastructure, natural channel corridors, and stormwater conveyance systems. His previous experience includes roles as a Deputy Director of Water Resources with the Matrix Group, and as a Civil Engineer - Drainage with the City of Pueblo.
