PlanCOS, the City of Colorado Springs' new comprehensive plan specifically contemplates and recommends adoption and implementation of a public art plan. The role and importance of public art in place making is infused throughout the Plan, and is emphasized particularly in its Renowned Culture theme and chapter (Chapter 6).

Renowned Culture Vision

"Promotes and embraces arts, culture, and education as essential parts of our lives and our identity. This builds on the efforts of General Palmer and many others that envisioned culture as the cornerstone of the community and where creative energy generates new possibilities, interpersonal connections, and unprecedented philanthropy"

Each of the five Renowned Culture Big Ideas has a tie to public art. These big ideas are:

Honor Our History

Grow and Celebrate Our Culture

Create Cross-Cultural Connections

Celebrate Our Partnerships

Strengthen our Educational Resources

Several of the Renowned Culture “Typologies” specifically incorporate public art and one of the Plan’s Essential Questions for City initiatives asks whether that initiative should incorporate public art. Finally, the Renowned Culture importance statement in PlanCOS has a strong nexus with the importance of this Public Art Plan:

“The built environment of Colorado Springs can be an expression of our distinctive culture. For our arts, culture, and education to continue to flourish, we will need places that support their incubation, growth, and celebration throughout the community. Our architecture, public art, parks, wide boulevards, museums, performance and educational institutions, historic areas, and public gathering places all help define the collective sense of place for our growing and diversifying citizenry”.

Proposed Motion:

The Planning Commission has an option to make a motion to endorse this draft Public Art Plan to City Council for adoption, with or without comments.
