SIGN ORDINANCE

PROJECT SUMMARY

The City of Colorado Springs' Sign Ordinance is part of the City's efforts to update and modernize the local sign standards to reflect current technology, industry practices and federal requirements for content neutral sign regulations as well as the citywide strategic priorities of economic vitality and infrastructure to promote a thriving business community.

The proposed Sign Ordinance reflects the City's commitment to maintain balance between effective communication, public safety, community aesthetics, and economic growth.

SIGN ORDINANCE

HISTORY

Pre-UDC Changes

- The sign regulations were last significantly updated in 2012
- Under the 2012 update, the regulations of signs were changed in part as follows:
 - Zone-based to Use-based, which assigned sign allowances and standards by commercial, industrial, office, civic and residential use type
 - The Electronic Message Center (EMC) sign type was added but limited to the Commercial use classification
 - The Coordinated Sign Plan (CSP) application type was added to afford properties with unique characteristics development flexibility for signage

Unified Development Code (UDC)

- Under the UDC, minor changes to the sign regulations were made, such as:
 - Allowing Condominium Office uses under the Coordinated Sign Plan
 - Established criteria for pitched roof signs as well as signs extending up above the roofline on the face of building walls

SIGN ORDINANCE CHANGES

- Reformatting and reorganization of Sign Ordinance content
- Coordinated Sign Plan Enhancement
- Sign Classification updates to Major, Minor and Temporary Sign Types
- Electronic Message Center Sign Updates
